From the Courier-Journal, Monday, March 7, 1898. The Courier Journal republishes this morning Judge Humphrey', it dispassionate statement and comparison of the present election sy s of Kentucky and that proposed by the Goebel bill, because to the though if or the superficial the scope and force of the revolution which the you would work may not be fully apparent. But even to the thouga't sell superficial an exposition of the difference between the two systems ohind bring a realization of the enormity of the Goebel plan's departure from an vital principle of self-government.

Imperfect as the existing election laws may be, they do rest upon and conserve the right of local sovereignty. The election officers in every county are appointed by officials chosen by the people; the returns are canvassed by officials chosen by the people; and contests from the decisions of such officials are appealable to the courts, the last and highest power recognized by and created by the people for the final settlement of questions of fact and law. On the other hand, the Goebel law would absolutely disfranchise every voter in the State at the will of two out of three mea sitting at Frankfort, with unlimited authority over every election officer in Kentucky, and responsible to no power of the people, reserved or delegated. To create such a tribunal independent of and superior to every organized function of popular government, judicial, executive and legislative (for except in its appointment, which may not always be an exception, it is also independent of the Legislature), is to create an autocratic tribunal foreign to and fatal to the Democratic theory of government. It is to erect upon the mere form of democracy the reality of oligarchy. It is to employ the pretense of republicanism for the entrenment of despotism. Even if this bill, which has so blindly, and we ing think, so unthoughtedly, passed both houses of the General Assembly, more liberal in its terms and provided that the commission which it institutes should in any way be amenable to the people or their representatives, such liberality would only be in semblance; for with the power with which this commission, once instituted, is invested, it can choose as its own creatures courts and Legislatures, as well as every other elective official, to do

It ought to be more than sufficient to condemn such a law as beneath even the serious consideration of a Kentuckian and American to indict it as an invention, devised in the temporary interest of personal and factional advancement; as a measure which, always and wholly partisan, would place the electoral machinery of the State at the absolute mercy of whatever boss or junta that should be able to secure control of the dominant party; as a device which, even for the furtherance of partisan and factional ends, would inevitably engulf in dissensional fury any party resorting to or charged with its execution. But all this is trivial, indeed, in comparison with the actual and radical significance of the change which the law would impose. Individual fortune, factional exploitation, party vicissitude dwarf and disappear utterly in the shadow of this alien and impious tower of feudalism erected upon the ruins of what we are wont to believe the fairest experiment in democracy the world has yet seen. What matter it who is Governor if Kentucky be shorn of sovereignty? What matter it what party is uppermost, if the franchise be struck down? What matter it who holds the offices and draw the salaries, if he only right left to the citizen be the right to pay the taxes without even a voice as to where they shall go or by whom they shall be collected?

Pitiably poor, indeed, is the only plaint when the advocates of this measure make in its behalf, when they claim that the men who would be clothed with this monstrous power would be honorable men. They are all honora men when they go into partisan politics. Granted that the men named in this board might be of the highest and cleanest character. So were the members of the Hayes-Tilden commission, and yet there was never a vote of that body which was not 8 one way and 7 the other. But they were all honorab men. The fathers who laid out the republic knew human nature and they knew politics. Earnest, wise, consecrated Democrats themselves, they had given their lives for Democracy, as their associates with whom they had stood shoulder to shoulder in defiance of despotism had gone to their deaths for democracy. And yet they never dared to organize a Democratic government without placing upon every department of that government sharply-defined limits and effectual checks. Their wisdom has been demonstrated at every step of our national progress, and every test to which their work has been subjected has proved that instead of weakening those checks they should be strengthened. They never believed that man, however honorable, would be perfect when intrusted with political power, and neither do the gentlemen who are pushing the Goebel bill believe it. But it would be puerile to argue the question. If the mere statement of the provisions of the Goebel bill does not astound and horrify every man in Kentucky who has the right to vote, then he is unworthy of that right, and he deserves no sympathy if a Frankfort commission takes it from him.

Mr. Wm. Walpole, of Walshtown, S. D., says: "A little blotch about the size of a pea came under my left eye, gradually growing larger, from which shooting pains at intervals ran in all directions. I became greatly alarmed and consulted a good doctor, who pronounced it Cancer, and advised that it be cut out, but this I could not consent to. I read in my local paper of a cure effected by S. S. S., and decided to try it. It acted like a charm, the Cancer becoming at first irritated, and then discharging very freely. This gradually grew less and then discontinued altogether, leaving a small scab which soon dropped off, and now only a healthy little scar remains where what threatened to destroy my life once held full sway."

We wonder is these noises do not occasionaly remind them of the fact that they have been reading Democratic lies for forty years, and that in spite of their effort to conceal it a faint gleam of intelligence reaches them at times which cause them to suspicion that they have, like the children of Israel, wandered in the wilderness for forty years. It is amusing to notice how their organs try to close the drum of their ears and This is the the best remedy in the keep out knowledge by explanations, evasions and excuses. An it is no more amusing than it is strange to see how many are still in bondage, how many refuse to see the light that is set before them-how many are blind because they will not see. "Democrats are born, not made," is a saying that conveys a good deal of truth, and when one of their number refuses to longer adhere to their Bryan's State. Such a fact may have the owner of the trousers, policy of obstruction they look upon him as lost to a faith which, like the laws of the Medes and Persians, admits of no change. These patriots who receive their faith as part of their birthright are so persistent in their belief that they will not read any but Democratic papers, and their declaration that they were "born Democrats and would die Democrats' is as exhilarating to them as it is distressing

But the time has come when many of the more intelligent ones are beginning to think for themselves, whose eyes can no longer be blinded nor ears closed to the real condition of things. We ask them to read both sides. We do not object to Republicans reading all the Democratic literature they can find. It will make them all the stronger in their faith-and a party or people that refuses a thorough investigation of its principles is like a goodly apple rotten at the core. That Cough Hangs On

Administrator,

You have used all sorts of cough remedies but it does not vield; it is too deep seated. It may wear itself out in time, but it is more liable to produce la grippe, pneumonia or a serious throat affection. You need something that will give you strength and build up the body.

will do this when everything else fails. There is no doubt about it. It nourishes, strengthens, builds up and makes the body strong and healthy, not only to throw off this hard cough, but to fortify the system against further attacks. If you are run down or emaciated you should certainly take this nourishing food medicine.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED

IT GOES TO EVERY PART. SURE, SAFE AND PLEASANT.

For years has the medical fraternity sought a reliable and sure cure for Catarrh. In this endeavor many hundreds of nostrums have been offered to a suffering public, and the health of thousands have been completely ruined by taking them, these various compounds causing the worst forms of Dyspepsia. Sprays and continents are also worthless, as it is impossible to reach the affected parts in this manner. MURDOCK'S CATARRH CURE is a new and scientific preparation and is to be smoked in a pipe, thereby the fumes and smoke going over the entire system affected by the disease. It relieves instantly the worst forms of Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Colds in the Head and all forms of Catarrh, no matter what shape, and cures when treatment is continued for reasonable time. No matter how little you are affected, don't delay treatment. Catarrh comes often from simple colds. Like all new and valuable preparations you will find others saying theirs are just as good.
